UTAH DEPARTMENT OF FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS
Statement on Credit Unions Working with Members
Affected by the Coronavirus and Regulatory Assistance

The Utah Department of Financial Institutions ("the Department") recognizes the potential for the Coronavirus Disease (referred to as COVID-19) to adversely affect the members and operations of financial institutions. The Department encourages financial institutions to take steps to meet the financial services needs of affected members and communities. The Department will provide appropriate regulatory assistance to affected financial institutions subject to its supervision, as warranted.

Working with Members: The Department encourages financial institutions to work with affected members and communities. The Department recognizes that such efforts serve the long-term interests of communities and the financial system when conducted with appropriate management oversight and consistent with safe and sound banking practices and applicable laws. These efforts may include, but are not limited to:

- Waiving certain fees, such as:
 - Automated teller machine (ATM) fees for members and non-members,
 - Overdraft fees,
 - Late payment fees on credit cards and other loans, and
 - Early withdrawal penalties on time deposits;
- Increasing ATM daily cash withdrawal limits;
- Easing restrictions on cashing out-of-state and non-member checks;
- Increasing credit card limits for creditworthy borrowers; and
- Offering payment accommodations, such as allowing borrowers to defer or skip some payments or extending the payment due date, which would avoid delinquencies and negative credit bureau reporting caused by COVID-19-related disruptions.

The Department emphasizes that prudent efforts to modify the terms on existing loans for affected members will not be subject to examiner criticism. For example, when appropriate, a financial institution may restructure a borrower's debt obligations due to temporary hardships resulting from COVID-19 related issues. Such cooperative efforts can ease cash flow pressures on affected borrowers, improve their capacity to service debt, and facilitate the financial institution's ability to collect on its loans.

Financial institutions may also ease terms for new loans to affected borrowers, consistent with prudent banking practices. Such practices may help borrowers to recover or maintain their financial capacity and enhance their ability to service their debt.

The Department recognizes there may be other accommodations that could assist members and communities in responding to challenges from COVID-19. The Department supports and will not criticize efforts to accommodate members in a safe and sound manner. The Department encourages financial institutions to work with their regulator regarding additional actions that may more effectively manage or mitigate any adverse impact due to COVID-19.

Financial Condition Review, Supervisory Response, and Regulatory Relief: The Department appreciates that some financial institutions with members affected by COVID-19 related issues may experience an increase in their levels of delinquent and nonperforming loans. Consistent with long-standing practices, the Department will consider the unusual circumstances these financial institutions face when reviewing an institution's financial condition and determining any supervisory response. As needed, the Department will work with affected financial institutions to reduce burden when scheduling examinations or inspections, including making greater use of off-site reviews, consistent with applicable legal and regulatory requirements.

Regulatory Reporting Requirements: Financial institutions affected by COVID-19 related issues that expect to encounter difficulty meeting regulatory reporting requirements, including audited financial statements and related reports, as applicable, are encouraged to contact the appropriate industry supervisor at the Department to discuss their situation. The Department's staff stands ready to work with affected financial institutions that may experience problems fulfilling their reporting responsibilities, considering each financial institution's circumstances.

Alternative Service Options for Members: The Department understands that financial institutions may need to temporarily close a facility due to staffing challenges or to take precautionary measures. The Department encourages financial institutions to reduce disruptions to their members, provide alternative service options when practical, and reopen affected facilities when it is safe to do so. Affected financial institutions are encouraged to notify the Department and their members of temporary closure of an institution's facilities and the availability of any alternative service options as soon as practical.
